

1895 Club

The 1895 Club concept was instigated by three Edinburgh based clubs whose centenary year coincided with each other. Enquiries were sent out to other 1895 centenary clubs throughout the country inviting their participation.

Goring & Streatley was one of the clubs which responded and after some correspondence representatives of 19 clubs attended a meeting at Handsworth Golf Club where some fine tuning was made, and agreement reached to constitute the 1895 Club. Its purpose is to foster relationships and offer reciprocal courtesy arrangements between members of participating clubs.

The arrangements agreed between the clubs are:

- Courtesy arrangements will only be offered to clubs a minimum of 75 miles apart.
- No more than four members from a participating club will be given courtesy on any one day.
- Your courtesy cannot be used in conjunction with a Golf society booking, however please feel free to contact us below if you would like to play as a group.
- Members will only be allowed one courtesy visit to any one participating club once in any year.
- The members who request courtesy must do so directly with the G & S GC via keith@goringgolf.co.uk and must reach agreement on the time and date, format of play and number of holes that can be played.
- A current membership card of your club will be required to validate the booking. We may also ring your club to confirm your status as a member.
